Zadanie 2. Przeczytaj tekst i zdecyduj, czy poniższe zdania są prawdziwe, czy fałszywe.

In the morning, the family woke up and saw the mess in the living room. The ornaments were broken, the lights were out, and the stockings above the fireplace were empty. Ben, who was only three years old, cried when he saw that the presents were gone. His mother hugged him and tried to cheer him up. She said, "Don't worry, Ben. We will fix this somehow."

Anna, Ben's older sister, had an idea. She said, "We should call the police! Maybe they can catch the Grinch and save Christmas!" Her parents agreed it was a good idea. Meanwhile, the father looked around the house and the garden. He was very angry and wanted to find the Grinch. He searched in every room, behind the trees, and in the garden. Outside, he found footprints in the snow, but they disappeared suddenly. "How strange," he thought.

The family sat together, trying to figure out what to do. Even Rico, their dog, seemed upset about the missing presents. Anna called the police and explained everything. She hoped they could find the Grinch and bring back the stolen gifts.

Hi, I'm Carl Thecop. Thank you for calling me. I will do everything I can to help you. I have a few questions for you. Your answers can be really helpful, so please think carefully and tell me the truth.

Carl Thecop: Ben, what were you doing yesterday at 6 p.m.?

Mum: I'm sorry, but Ben can't speak. He is too young.

Carl Thecop: Oh, sorry. So, what was Ben doing yesterday at 6 p.m.?

Mum: He _____, because he was very tired. He was helping me and my husband all day!

Carl Thecop: And you, sir? What were you doing yesterday at 6 p.m.?

Father: _____ the Christmas tree. Ben was supposed to help me, but he fell asleep, so I put him to bed and did it myself.

Carl Thecop: Did you see anything suspicious?

Father: No, I didn't.

Carl Thecop: And what about you, madame? What were you doing yesterday at 6 p.m.?

Mother: I _____ Christmas dinner for my family.

Carl Thecop: Did you hear anything suspicious?

Mother: No, I didn't. I was listening to Christmas songs and singing along. It was too loud to hear anything.

Carl Thecop: Anna, what were you doing yesterday at 6 p.m.?

Anna: I _____ outside with Rico. He had too much energy and my mum asked me to throw him some snowballs.

Carl Thecop: Did you observe anything suspicious?

Anna: Well, actually...
